ONE Simple Change

A practice manager recently stepped into a more strategic, developmental role. With that shift came a change in physical location, tucked away from the team. Over time, communication issues, tension, and team disconnect started to build, and she was too far removed to notice it in time.

Before

- Office located far from team
- Missed early warning signs
- Disconnected from team vibe
- HR issues building silently

After

- Working near/on reception
- Real-time insights and fixes
- Stronger relationships & visibility
- Gaps addressed early and directly

Impact

This small, physical change resulted in:

- Real-time awareness of problems
- More efficient issue resolution
- Stronger team relationships
- A noticeable improvement in culture and patient care

“It wasn’t a new policy. It wasn’t a restructure. It was a chair moved 15 metres, and that changed everything.”

Learning Outcomes

1. Discover how small, consistent actions can drive big improvements in workplace culture.
2. Unpack the root causes of common HR challenges and build a culture of accountability.
3. Learn practical strategies to boost staff retention, engagement and career development.

How would you rate your current workplace culture?

How would you rate your current workplace culture?

What is the biggest impact to your current culture? Good or Bad?

Could you confidently define your practice culture in under 30 seconds?

If I asked your top 3 team members to define your practice culture... would their answers align with yours?

“If culture lives in the day-to-day behaviours, then it should be clearly recognised, not just by you, but by your team. If the answers wouldn’t align, that’s not failure... that’s your starting point.”

George Sotiris – HR In Health

The Culture Equation

Culture = Behaviours x Consistency x Leadership Presence

Micro-Moves that Build Trust

What builds culture (actions, tone, recognition)

- Start and end meetings on time
- Greet everyone by name, daily
- Follow up on things you said you'd do
- Ask, "What do you need from me today?"
- Say thank you for specific actions
- Physically show up — front desk walk-throughs
- Bring staff into small decisions
- Hold regular 1:1s even when things are "fine"
- Own your mistakes out loud
- Defend the standard, not the person

What breaks culture (avoidance, favouritism, lack of clarity)

- Walking past poor behaviour
- Only giving feedback when things go wrong
- Favouritism or inconsistency
- Gossip tolerated or unmanaged
- Avoiding difficult conversations
- Not acknowledging effort or wins
- Manager always behind a closed door
- Changing expectations without clarity
- Over-reliance on policies without human connection
- Silence after feedback is given

The Hidden Cost of Cultural Drift

Staff taking frequent leave, performance issues emerging,
patients not being greeted properly, but no one raises it because it's now normal.

“Cultural Drift” where standards slip slowly because nothing is corrected.

How to Identify Cultural Issues The Easy Way (That Actually Works)

Ask These 3 Simple Questions

Debrief Exit Interviews & Complaints, Don't Dismiss Them

- Review recent exits, complaints, or even anonymous feedback
- Look for themes, not isolated events

Culture issues often hide in plain sight, especially when dismissed as “personality clashes.”

Connection Between People & Foundations

Employment Foundations

- Fair Work & Pay Compliance
 - Health Professionals & Support Services(HPSS) Award
 - Nurses Award
- Employment Contracts
- Employment Policies and Procedures
 - Regular Training is a MUST
- WHS Framework

Triaging HR Issues

Risk Level	Label	Leadership Action
 Critical	Red Flag Issue	Immediate action. Engage HR/legal. Protect staff, patients, and the business.
 High	Escalating Risk	Escalate internally. Begin formal process. Manage quickly.
 Medium	Needs Addressing	Structured 1:1. Reference policy. Document outcome.
 Low	One to Watch	Monitor. Informal follow-up. Note potential patterns.

Triaging HR Issues

- Cultural or behavioural problems *aren't just standalone issues they interfere with everything else
- Performance concerns? They're often symptoms of deeper cultural friction
- Compliance breaches? Often stem from normalised bad behaviour
- High turnover? Usually not about pay it's about how people feel at work
- If you don't address culture, you'll keep managing the same problems repeatedly

HR in Health Tip # 2

Strong communication with your team

Address the issues in real time

Have small conversations that make the hard ones easier

Hold Yourself & Staff Accountable

- Don't start a process if you don't have the support
- Use your employment foundations to support your process:
 - Onboarding/HR training (should be annual)
 - Employment Policies (code of conduct is your best tool)
 - Contracts
- Seek support from professionals
- Document, Document & Document

“The standard you walk past is the standard you accept”
